六、閱讀測驗：(每題 2 分，共 18 分)

1.

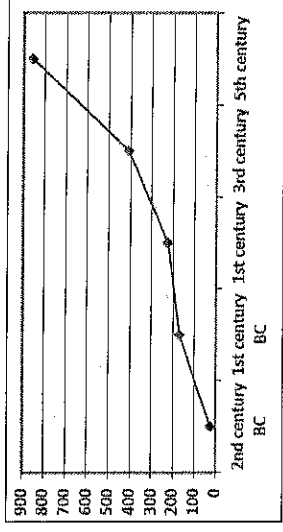

Ancient Romans worked hard. They of course became dirty, but they only washed their arms and legs when they got home. With each day, their bodies got dirtier and dirtier. Then, on the ninth day, they would finally wash their bodies well. They cleaned their bodies with cold water, and some of them even did that by swimming in the river.

At the end of the 3rd century BC, the idea of taking a bath in hot baths every day came from Greece. It quickly grew popular with the Romans, and they began making bathrooms in their houses. The first public bathhouses came in the 2nd century BC, and in 33 BC, Rome had 170 small baths. By the early 5th century, there were more than 800 public baths in the city.

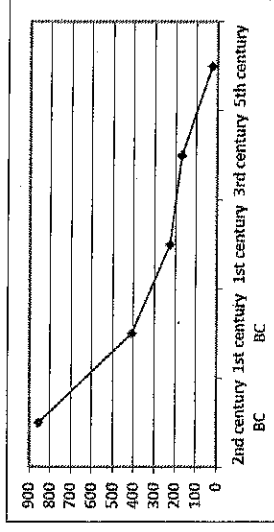

These bathhouses weren't just large bathrooms. Some were as big and as busy as today's shopping centers. They had restaurants, gyms, reading rooms, and more. Men and women went there to meet friends, enjoy meals, and even have someone cut their hair. Although they had to pay to go into the bathhouses, the bathhouses became a very important part of their daily lives.

There's an English speech contest at Lisa's school this Friday. Lisa's teacher asked Lisa to join the contest because her English is good and she studies hard. Lisa is excited about it, but she's also very nervous because she's afraid of making mistakes. Many people gave Lisa advice.

"On Friday, you should go to school early," her mother said.

"You want everyone to hear well, so you should speak slowly and clearly," said her teacher.

However, the best advice was from Lisa's brother.

"Don't worry about making mistakes. Everyone makes mistakes sometimes," he said. "Just do your best."

Before I was a mom —

I could use my time freely. I could get up and go to bed at any time. I could sleep through the night without any problems. I never had to get up in the middle of the night to check on a baby. I also had time to brush my hair and teeth every day.

Before I was a mom —

I never held down a crying baby, so doctors could do tests on it. I never looked at its sad face and cried. I never suddenly got happy over a smile. I never stayed up late all night just to watch a sleeping baby.

Before I was a mom —

I never felt my heart outside my body. I didn't experience that bond between a mother and her baby. I didn't know my love for someone could be this strong.

Before I was a mom —

I never knew the warmth, happiness, and headache of being a mom. I didn't know about being a mom.
