He is a thirty-year-old man, loves his wife, and is happy all the time. However, he was a different person two years ago. Eli was fat, weak, and very unhappy. He tried to be thin, healthy, and happy, but he didn't succeed until he made a small change: get up early. Every morning, Eli has to go to work at eight thirty, so he gets up at four thirty. He reads good books, goes jogging, and eats healthy food for breakfast—all before work. To get up early, he has to go to bed early, too. After he practices this idea every day, Eli is not only happy but also healthy. "There are two tips on getting up on time," Eli said, "First, don't use phones or computers before bed. The blue light from them makes you sleep badly. Second, let the sunshine into your room. That will make you more energetic. Make a change
